Now comes Plaintiffs/Counterclaim Defendants, Mark R. Hoop and Lisa J. Hoop (hereafter "Plaintiffs") who hereby move this Court for a protective order preventing Defendants/Counterclaim Plaintiffs Jeffrey W. Hoop, Stephen E. Hoop, and Hoopster Accessories, Inc. (hereafter "Defendants") from harassing and bothering customers of the Eagle Fairing Guards at dispute in this litigation. Defendants have shown a pattern of harassing past suppliers and advertisers of the fairing guards, (notably, Schulte Platers of Cincinnati and Thunderpass Magazine.) Plaintiffs request that Defendants be limited to inquiring solely as to when customers of the fairing guards acquired them.

Defendants have systematically attempted to run up attorney's fees. While Plaintiffs will provide whatever information the Court orders, Plaintiffs request that any motion of Defendants' found without merit be recompensed to Plaintiffs. Enough is enough. A simple phone call would have resolved Defendants' Motion for Contempt, yet they could not be bothered to do so.
